LAYING A FOUNDATION OF FAITH
Editor’s Note

Paul Stetler | Editor

God is doing exciting things on the campus of Hobe Sound Bible College and Hobe Sound Christian Academy! For five consecutive years we have increased in enrollment and closed in the black. Even more importantly, God has sent some of the most qualified professors available who also are deeply committed to biblical values. We want to teach them the core academic subjects from a Christian perspective and give them a thoroughly biblical foundation before confronting the challenges of a secular university. Others feel called directly to the secular workplace but seek to know what they believe, why they believe it, and how to share it in that setting. Some are still pursuing a calling from God and simply need a place to get core educational courses and Bible classes until they find more specific direction. We have a passion to instill biblical values within each of these students.

Give God your head. It is our mission to teach our students the truths of God’s Word and how to apply them in every aspect of life. We want to expose them to the many evidences that support the reliability of the Scripture and give them confidence in the face of a cynical world. This is why we have hired some of the most qualified professors available who also are deeply committed to biblical values. We want to teach them the core academic subjects from a Christian perspective and give them a thoroughly biblical philosophy of life, not merely a perspective and give them a thoroughly biblical foundation before confronting the challenges of a secular university. Others feel called directly to the secular workplace but seek to know what they believe, why they believe it, and how to share it in that setting. Some are still pursuing a calling from God and simply need a place to get core educational courses and Bible classes until they find more specific direction. We have a passion to instill biblical values within each of these students.

Give God your heart. It is our mission to teach our students the truths of God’s Word and how to apply them in every aspect of life. We want to expose them to the many evidences that support the reliability of the Scripture and give them confidence in the face of a cynical world. This is why we have hired some of the most qualified professors available who also are deeply committed to biblical values. Give God your hands. When the head has been filled with knowledge of God’s Word and the heart has been enflamed with a passion to share the love of God and the hope of salvation, what does it mean to be called? Are only certain Christians called to specific tasks like preaching, teaching, or doing missionary work? If the answer to that question is yes, are all the uncalledChristians free to do whatever they wish with their lives so long as what they choose doesn’t violate any specific command of Scripture? It seems many people have this concept of God’s calling, but I do not agree with that philosophy.

I believe God has a calling for EVERYONE who is a Christian. He does not just save us and then say, "I’m not calling you to any specific task. So you just go do whatever you want to do as long as it doesn’t involve anything sinful.” NO! God does not do that! Every one of us is carefully, lovingly designed by God with a specific purpose in mind. We call that purpose God’s will for our lives.

God’s will for your life could be one of the traditional callings like preaching, teaching, or missionary work, but it could be something very different from those traditional ministries. It could be God’s will for you to work in a factory or on a construction crew. He could want you to work in the medical field or serve in crisis situations as a first responder.

His will could be for you to be a farmer or a musician or an attorney or a financial planner. God’s plan for your life could be for you to sell real estate or be a stay-at-home mom who raises godly children and later uses those same skills to operate a home-based childcare center. The important thing is that you find God’s will and do it! You see, God would like to fill this world with people who are His witnesses. If you are a Christian, God wants you to use you to shine His light and tell His story wherever He places you. He may place you in a factory, on a construction site, in a professional office, or keep you in your home as a homemaker. The important thing is finding where God wants you and being faithful there.

God’s will for you may change as you move through life. I started out as a music major in college but eventually felt a call to preaching ministry. After graduating from college I pastored for twenty years, then felt clearly led to come to HSBC to serve in the field of Christian education. My friend Frank Vaughn on the other hand began his career as a machinist/tool-molder maker. But after working for fifteen years in that profession, he felt...
Laying a Foundation of Faith

An Interview with Mr. Jonathan Stratton, Chair of the Professional Studies Department

What is the Professional Studies Department?

The Professional Studies Department prepares students to go into a professional occupation—occupations not distinctly related to ministry. We do that through two-year degrees in areas such as aviation, business, media, and secretarial science—preparing students to go on to trade school, vocational school, or a secular university. Each of those degrees has a Bible core giving a foundation in Bible and theology to prepare them for going into that environment. Additionally, the program benefits students who do not really know yet where they are headed in life. This can be a perfect place for them to begin to explore that and to get a clear understanding of who they are and the path down which God is leading them.

Have you seen students in this department ultimately transition into other career ministry programs?

It seems to happen quite consistently. I think every semester there are students who come to the realization they are supposed to go on to a specific ministry department. To some of them that happens after a year or two. But there are a number who complete a two-year degree and then turn around and finish a four-year degree in one of the ministry programs.

Describe the student best suited to this department.

This department is useful for students who already know their calling in the secular work force—in medicine, as an engineer, or in some other vocation that would not be specifically ministry related. They can come here and later basic education and get a foundation in Bible and theology to prepare them for going into that environment. Additionally, this program prepares students who do not really know yet where they are headed in life. This can be a perfect place for them to begin to explore that and to get a clear understanding of who they are and the path down which God is leading them.

How do you envision this department preparing the student for further education?

It helps students adjust to college life and the rigors of higher education. Should they choose to go on somewhere else, they have already taken those first steps in understanding what college is as a Bible college one of the biggest roles we play is providing a student, a solid foundation in Bible and theology to go into an increasingly hostile world of secular education. Secular universities are very anti-Christian, and we can give them a way to defend their faith. Additionally, it prepares them to share their faith in their environment.

What are some examples of students who have built successful academic or vocational careers on the foundation of this program?

Aaron Clyde graduated from HSBC with an associate of arts in 2012 and went on to pursue further education in the medical field at a secular university in Pennsylvania. He told of one of his science professors standing in front of a class of mostly sophomores and saying, “If you’re still clinging to creationism at this point in your education, you are clearly refusing to accept all the scientific evidence, and you will make biased and poor scientists. You should just get up and leave right now.” Thankfully, Aaron had been given a solid biblical foundation, and his faith remained strong.

Neil Shira does not have a distinct call to fulltime ministry. He works at a diesel mechanic shop. He has led people to Christ and has been a solid Christian influence in that environment. Neil invests in the young people in his local church and in his community. The biblical and theological foundation he received here has equipped him.

Hugh Wade graduated from the Professional Studies Department with a degree in aviation in 2014. He is currently serving as an airline captain in his home country of Belize and was hired by the government as a consultant to review and rewrite the country’s aviation standards. As a result, new airlines such as Southwest Airlines and West Jet have begun servicing the country of Belize.

One of the things we actively pursue in the Professional Studies Department is bringing students to an understanding that they are called to be fulltime Christians even if they are not called to a career ministry. In fact, that is what God expects of every one of us. He intends for them to develop their gifts and talents to the very best of their ability and to use that in their whole life to build up the kingdom of God. It prepares them to go back and won’t a secular job and have the tools to assist in their local congregation—to teach a Sunday school class, to give a Bible study, to sit on a board, and to engage in their world and local church with a Christian biblical worldview.

As chairman what is your personal vision for this department?

I love the process of mentoring and discipleship. If there is one thing I know it is that I am clearly called to the work of discipling other people. Many students have witnessed the view that there are two types of Christians. The first are those who have this great
HELP FROM A Hurricane

Living in South Florida means ocean breezes and sunny days. We never close for a snow day or get trapped in an ice storm. But we do get visited by hurricanes.

The campus has never experienced significant damage from a hurricane, and we have never had a hurricane-related injury. In the fifty-five years of our existence, only six storms have even directly impacted this area.

Hobe Sound Bible College holds the safety of its students very seriously. Every precaution is taken to ensure their well-being. As Hurricane Irma approached in September, the dorm students were evacuated to Pell City Bible Methodist campground in Alabama. That was not on the school schedule. In fact one service of the fall revival with Rev. Clair Sams was held on Tuesday evening before canceling the meeting to leave the campus. However, God used the evacuation to bond the students and provide spiritual growth.

Even though Irma changed course and did not directly hit us, the experience affected the students. The twenty-two hour bus ride to the campground was their first adventure. Then Fox News channel WBRC heard about the arrival of the students and came to interview them. Jordan Woods said, “It gave a platform for the school and for the campgrounds we were staying on to share about Christ.”

During the week, the students played games, held prayer times, and helped a family move into their home. Josh Modlin said helping unload the moving truck after traveling all night was definitely a bonding experience. Freshman Britney Thormbry said, “I got to know a lot of my classmates better, and it began friendships that I truly cherish.”

The daily school schedule tends to divide students by major. Being on the campground rearranged everyone. Eileen Cole said, “It definitely helped (bond us) because we spent so much time with everyone rather than our own groups that we are with at school.”

God gave traveling mercies to the students and spared the campus from any major damage. After a day of cleaning up limbs and taking down storm shutters, it was back to the routine schedule. But connections have been made that will last a lifetime.

John Bandela was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, but grew up in Hobe Sound. He attended Hobe Sound Christian Academy from first through seventh grades and again from ninth through twelfth grades, graduating in 1998. John says, “Attending Hobe Sound Christian Academy helped lay the spiritual and academic foundation for my life.” John married his wife Indira in 2012. They have two children, Lisa and Sophia. John earned a Bachelor of Science of Computer and Information Sciences and a Doctor of Medicine from the University of Florida. The Bandelas live in Santa Clara, California, where John works as a software engineer for Google. After working in the field of neurosurgery for several years, Dr. Bandela was hired by Google to help develop software which will one day facilitate the performance of brain and spinal surgery through means of artificial intelligence. They attend Christ Church India where John teaches Sunday school for senior high school and college students. His class focuses on grounding the students in the faith so they can know why they believe what they believe about Whom they believe. John says, “I have fond memories of my time at HSCA and have ongoing friendships with fellow students and former teachers.” John demonstrates the solid education provided at Hobe Sound Christian Academy.

Eric and Nancy (Kellogg) Going live in Fort Scott, Kansas, where Eric pastors the Pathway Church of God (Holliness). God has brought them through many steps to get to this place.

Eric was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, and grew up in Goldsboro, North Carolina. In 2005 his family moved to Hobe Sound when his father Matt Going began teaching at HSBC. Eric graduated from the academy and then earned a BA in Pastoral Ministry from the college, graduating in 2011. He also worked in public relations and communications for FEA Ministries.

Nancy was born in Coldwater, Michigan, and grew up in Bremen, Ohio. She moved to Hobe Sound and began working at FEA Ministries. At various times during her tenure she served as a receptionist, in the public relations and communications departments, and as bookkeeper. She also earned a BA in Elementary Education from the college, graduating in 2010.

Eric and Nancy were married June 5, 2010. Their family now includes Chloe, Jackson, and Ella. The Goings say, “We are very grateful for the quality education we received and for the lifelong connections we made while at Hobe Sound Bible College.” God brought them together at HSBC and continues to use them to further His kingdom.

ALUMNI NEWS

- Dr. Mark Smith Heads Columbia International University’s New Women’s Program
  On July 1, 2017, Dr. Mark Smith became seventh president of Columbia International University in Columbia, South Carolina. Dr. Smith graduated from Hobe Sound Bible College in 1988. He served as president at Ohio Christian University for eleven years, increasing enrollment from 400 to approximately 4,600 students. Dr. Smith said it is the nearly one-hundred-year-old reputation of CU for Bible-centered learning and world evangelization that drew him there.
  “My whole life has been about being involved in ministry and missions,” Smith said. “It was important for me to stay true to what I felt God had called me to do, and that is preparing a new generation of ministers, missionaries and ministering professionals for the day that we live for.” Dr. Smith’s inauguration will be during the CUH homecoming in November.

Dr. John Enyart Receives Honor

On October 17, the Arts Council of Martin County awarded Dr. John Enyart the Mar- ties Award for Lifetime Achievement in the Arts. Dr. Enyart served as Chair- man of the Music Department of Hobe Sound Bible College for seven years and gave violin lessons to hundreds of students. The mission of the Arts Council is to inspire participation in and a passion for the arts in the community. Congratulations to Dr. Eny- art on an award well deserved.

Counseling Trip

Dr. Andrew Graham and thirteen counseling students joined 7,000 others in attending the American Association of Christian Coun-sellors’ World Conference in Nashville, Tennessee, in September. Over the course of four content-packed days, the students heard from plenary speakers such as Dr. John Ortberg, Dr. John Townsend, and Dr. Richard Blackaby and chose from 175 workshops led by many of the top Christian counsel- ors in the world. After completing a presentation and reflection paper, students are eligible to receive one credit hour for attending. During the trip one student reflected: “I feel like I’m positive that this is what I’m supposed to be.”

Missions Trip — Rev. Sidney Grant, Alex Camposeco, and Jordan Wiford traveled to Tacana, Guatemala, in September. The trip was comprised of four objectives: preaching, teaching and training, planning ministry expansion, and ministering to the spiritual needs of the leaders. Rev. Grant spoke in a pastor’s conference while Alex and Jordan ministered to the children and youth. Jordan Wiford said, “A highlight of the trip was seeing the young people really soaking in what we were teaching them and asking us questions...” Four buildings in Tacana collapsed from the September earthquake in Mexico even though the town is almost twenty-four hours from the center of the earthquake. Continue to pray for the people of this area, especially God’s children who are sharing His love with those around them.

Faculty and Staff Transitions

Several changes happened this summer with new faculty coming and others changing positions. At HS Christian Academy, Scott Blackmon and Joel Veyon are now teaching junior high. Natasha Hausman is moving into the position of kindergarten teacher as Alana Ryder takes maternity leave. HSBC welcomes Rev. Aaron Hamilton as the new chair of the Ministerial Department and as Director of Finances. Paul Gagnon is now bookstore manager as Robert Booth moves full-time to the academy. Kara Gumbiner has come as the administrative assistant for Institutional Advancement and as webmaster. Molly Spruill serves as director of financial aid. The familiar face of Joan Stebler continues as Director of Public Relations and is also serving as Director of Institutional Advancement. Rob Loper has added Director of Ministry Formation to his title of Work Director. Colin Gardner is providing maintenance and will be the supervisor of the Addison Student Center. Julia Cole now teaches all of the academy music classes and directs the high school choir.

Dorm Renovations –

Dozens of hours were spent this summer in upgrading both dormitories. Wor ters included John Beardslee, Wesley and Debbie Holden, Wayne Kanes, Cary Finney, Paul Budensiek, Carol Jones, Rob Loper, Tyler Loper, Michael McMillan, Gene Cook, Karen Carroll, Claude Hobbs, Jordan Finney, Sharon Walter, Colin Gardner, Lyndell Predmore, and businesses Addison Drywall, Chamber’s Electric, Daniels Plumbing, Eddie Rosillo Painting, and Southern Blinds. A hearty thank you to all of these for their labors and expertise.

Paul Stebler continues as Director of Public Relations and is also serving as Director of Institutional Advancement.
Summer Music Groups

Three groups traveled throughout the summer to represent HSBC. Once again, our groups distinguished themselves musically, professionally and spiritually. Legacy included Tim Anderson, Tyrel Hunt, Ben Deeter, and David Yancey with Nate and Karra Becher sponsoring. Harmony was made up of Trae Bates, Eileen Cole, and Andrea Case with Tim and Julia Cole sponsoring. Avenue was Stilas Nic, Bryan Robledo, and Joel Veyon with Paul Steiler sponsoring. The groups ministered in approximately 100 services and participated in FTE (Full-Time Equivalents) in 40 different camps as song leaders, accompanists, special singers, devotional leaders, preschoolers, etc. Thanks God for His traveling mercies and for anointing the ministry of these groups.

Enrollment

We are happy to report that enrollment is up in every category this fall! Our combined college headcount (including on-campus and online students) is 229. Our academy enrollment stands at 229. This means we are providing quality Christian education to 58% students' lives. Our college campus FTE (Full-Time Equivalents) increased from 106.7 to 114.58. We had a nine percent increase in campus freshmen enrolled this fall. Our fall online enrollment increased by forty percent. We are thankful for your continued growth!

Fall Revival

Hobe Sound Bible College gives a special thanks to Rev. Clair Sams, our speaker for the fall revival. Rev. Sams came down to Florida even though Hurricane Irma was approaching. He ministered to us in the Tuesday night service and did an excellent ministry service. The remainder of the revival had to be canceled and the campus evacuated. Thank you, Rev. Sams, for your ministry and for being willing to come under the circumstances.

God leading him to quit his job and go to the mission field. He followed God’s call and served fourteen years in Haiti. When those years were ended, he returned to the USA and worked for eleven years behind the scenes as a toolmaker with serving as Caribbean Field Director for Hope International Missions. As a result of Frank following God’s will, he has been a blessing to far more people than he ever imagined possible.

Every Christian has a call from God! Jesus included all Christians when He said, “You are my witnesses.” He included all Christians when He said, “Go ye into all the world and preach (proclaim) the gospel to every creature.” He included all Christians when He said, “You are a light, and you are the salt of the earth.” Whatever profession or vocation you may have, you are a Christian first. Your primary purpose for being in this world is to share the love of God and the hope of salvation. Your profession offers you the opportunity to come in contact with people and serve them while sharing the love of Jesus Christ through your life and witness.

Having said all of the above, I should point out that every Christian young person should give prayerful consideration to and be open to a call from God to be involved in fulltime Christian service. The reason I say that is very simple. Anyone with the natural aptitudes and appropriate opportunities can be a farmer, an attorney, a factory worker, an insurance salesman, a computer programmer, a doctor, or any other secular profession. The circumstances with fulltime Christian ministry is vastly different. You must be a Christian to be a pastor, a Christian school teacher, a missionary, or a church musician! That requirement narrows the field of candidates dramatically among the young people of any generation. Every Christian young person should pray with the prophet Isaiah, “Here am I, Lord, send me.” If God calls that young person to a “secular profession,” then He obviously wants them to be a Christian witness for Him in that role. We must never forget, however, that Jesus urged His followers to realize that “the harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few.” And He urged them to “pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest” (Luke 10:2).

It is our purpose here at HSBC to instill in our students a missional attitude exemplified by the Apostle Paul when he used his profession as a tentmaker to enable him to share the gospel with more people. It is our prayer that our students will take that same missional mindset with them as they leave our campus to make an eternal difference in the lives of the people they serve! Knowing Christ and maintaining His known is not only our motto, we pray it will be our mode of living.

Neither does it give them a pass to say, “I am not called to fulltime ministry.” Therefore, I get to do my fulltime ministry. One of the things I try to emphasize to students in my department is just that because they are not called into fulltime ministry, the profession does not mean they are second-rate Christians.

Schools in my hometown were God-so they were stuck with me. My parents even tried to "The chance of Sid's learning abilities are very slim." My parents even tried to provide me with a private tutor. But my private tutor said to my parents, "The learning of Sid's abilities are more than just academic and intellectual. They are comprised of short-term achievement for long-term advancement. Sometimes failure becomes the fuel for Christfulness while Christfulness remains intact.

People—Dr. Howard Hendricks wrote a book, Teaching to Change Lives: Seven Proven Ways to Make Your Teaching Come Alive. In it he emphasized the importance of investing in people's lives with an interest that is intensively personal. That is, "teaching is much more than professional. It's also intensely personal—and, in fact, a passion." Additionally, the teacher Linda always teaches from the overflow of a full life...[Teachers who] stop growing today, stop teaching tomorrow...You cannot impart what you do not possess. If you don't know it—truly know it—you cannot give it...As long as you live, you learn, and as long as you live, you learn,..."

If our teaching is for academic prestige and intellectual exercise, the result becomes academic futility. People and their potential in the Kingdom of God are the primary purposes of education. Robert Coleman in his book The Master Plan of Evangelism gives eight elements from Jesus educating his followers. Each step is biblically based, logically presented, and chronologically practical. They are selection—choosing men who made themselves available for His teaching; will; association—identifying and relating with those we teach; consecration—developing character by pointing students to radically serve Jesus by assisting each person to completely surrender to the will of God; importation—equipping students with the tools for excellence and effectiveness in ministry; demonstration—ensuring that each student we teach is provided with a platform of practical ministry where they come, grow, serve, and eventually go to spread the gospel and serve in the world, derision—discover, develop, and delegate assignments for the purpose of nurturing character and competence; supervision—creating a cultural environment wherein students learn intentionally, serve freely, and share openly-done through the academic mechanism of spiritual and ministerial accountability, and reproduction—transformational teaching that is translated into real life that perpetuates the principles of truth learned.

Priorities! Education is not an optional choice of academic institutional activities. It is the crankshaft that keeps the mechanism of the great Commission of Christ turning and moving in an advancing direction. Contextually, it is God's way of teaching, transforming, transmitting, and tasing His people with the job of perpetuating His kingdom purposes. Therefore, from the cradle to the grave to the throne room of glory, it behooves us to take intentional interest in students by investing in their lives and imparting the absolute truth of the Word of God.

Education is the crankshaft that keeps the mechanism of the great Commission of Christ turning and moving...[Teachers who] stop growing today, stop teaching tomorrow...You cannot impart what you do not possess.
